CEO Statement

The alcohol and other drug sector continues to deliver its services within an environment of significant change and opportunity.

To take advantage of these opportunities, WANADA's new Strategic Plan builds upon our strengths, our unique position, and the needs of the sector.

WANADA is driven by the passion, hard work and expertise of our member agencies and their staff. It is these qualities which WANADA gives voice to and represents to the community, other sectors and government, to achieve the best outcomes for consumers and their families. WANADA remains committed to furthering cultural security and inclusive practices.

Through this shared voice, WANADA will continue to express the importance of the alcohol and other drug sector across human services in Western Australia.

In this dynamic environment, WANADA will continue to support our members in their efforts to grow and specialise their workforce, build effective work practices and promote their achievements.

I thank members for their continued support of WANADA and look forward to leading WANADA and the sector into the future.

Jill Rundle, Chief Executive Officer
October 2016

We promote inclusive and accepting communities, and culturally secure services that enable equitable access.

We are committed to member feedback and experience, sound evidence, consumer participation, and continuous quality improvement.

We advocate for new collaborative practices, diverse service types and policy directions that build the long term sustainability of the alcohol and other drug sector.

STRATEGIC PLAN

2017 - 2019

VISION

A human services sector that significantly improves the health and wellbeing of individuals, families and communities by addressing alcohol and other drugs.

PURPOSE

To lead a shared voice within the specialised alcohol and other drug sector that drives positive change.

Strategic Priorities
